HOUSE FERMENTS

13

Sustainability and waste reduction are at the core of our values at Navi. We pride ourselves in turning food preparation leftovers into delicious drinks, showcasing different fermentation techniques. We see this as a way of exploring creativity and preserving the flavours of produce that has a fleeting short season or shelf life.

- Prickly Pear, Persimmon & Carrot Kombucha
Preserving the taste of Autumn by using all of the parts to ferment into a kombucha
- Pina Colada Tepache
Made from otherwise discarded pineapple skins, coconut cream, pineapple pulp leather
- Asparagus Juice Sake
A lacto-fermented brine produced from our kitchen when preserving our white asparagus serves as the basis for this drink, then lightened with a bush tea blend & chamomile
- Honey Mead
Whole Yarraville honey combs are carefully cleaned to create a non-alcoholic honey wine, while the wax is melted down to coat to coat our vessels for drink production
- Kvass
Traditionally an Eastern European beverage made from old bread, we use leftover "William" sourdough and a touch of local honey to ferment a non-alcoholic beer-like beverage

SAKE

Melbourne Sake- Australia's first sake brewery
After working together in a Melbourne wine bar in 2014, Matt Kingsley-Shaw and Quentin Hanley started taking an interest in the world of sake. As lovers of all things local and craft, they grew increasingly restless waiting for an Australian craft sake brewery and eventually decided to just do it themselves- and it was then that Melbourne Sake was born.
